DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 10-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Claim 10 requires that the cylindrical shaft is "rigid" in lines 11 and 12, but nowhere in the specification is this supported. The specification and figures only disclose that the shaft is smooth and cylindrical.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 10, 11, and 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 as being unpatentable over International Application Publication WO 99/21515 Grooms in view of United States Patent 5,176,682 Chow.

Art Unit: 3738

Grooms discloses the invention substantially as claimed being an implant shown in figure 2B comprising a blunt proximal end (202), a tapered distal end adapted to receive a suture (201), a transverse eye (210), and a cylindrical shaft (204). However Grooms fails to teach the use of channels formed on opposite sides of the implant while maintaining the shafts cylindrical outer shape.

Chow teaches the use of a bone anchor comprising a suture passage 18 having channels 20a and 20b formed around the hole extending to the tip, in order to guide the ligament around the body of the anchor shown best in figures 3-8.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made use the tapered channels surrounding the through hole taught by Chow on the implant of Grooms in order to provide an implant that has a smoother guide surface for the suture thread around the through hole thereby relieving stress on the suture.

Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grooms in view of Chow as applied to claims 10, 11, and 13-15 above, and further in view of United States Patent 6,045,554 Grooms et al.

The combination of Grooms and Chow discloses the invention substantially as claimed being described above. However, the combination does not disclose that the implant is made of allograft or a synthetic bone material.

Grooms 554' teaches the use of an implant made of allograft or synthetic bone material (2:9-22) in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of providing an implant that is capable of fusing with the bone it is implanted into.

Art Unit: 3738

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the allograft or synthetic bone materials taught by Grooms 554' with the implant of Grooms as modified by Chow in order to provide an implant that has strength comparable to a metallic version, and has the advantage of leaving no residual hardware while contributing to bone stock.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 10-15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
